Boston, Mass., Oct. 22.—The market recovered some today from decline which it had in late trading yesterday but the outside buying was not very general on the decline. There was good demand for Mayflower and Old Colony which were the strongest features on favorable reports from the properties. The balance of the list was un-der slight pressure and closed with an easy tone. In the New York market there was considerable short covering at close and prices rallied three-quarters to one point from the close. We do not look for any further serious decline from this level but in the event of any sustained advance would advise lightening up acounts between now and election.-Foster.
